NOTE: According to the best-laid plans of mice and men (and there is actually a mouse-like creature hidden away in one of the stories contained in the book you're being asked to order), First Presbyterian Church of Athens, Georgia: A Bicentennial History, 1820-2020 was to be available early during the 200th anniversary year so that church members could use it as a directory to all of the activities and events scheduled in commemoration of the bicentennial. Unfortunately, the coronavirus COVID-19 pandemic and a whole series of lesser difficulties postponed production, but the delay also allowed the authors and editors to continue researching and writing, making this an even finer book than it might otherwise have been. It is now slated for delivery early in 2021.
